

Research is our foundation

Research is the foundation of Lundbeck. It drives our thinking, shapes our planning, and ultimately determines our success.

For Lundbeck research is a way of life. It calls for insight, imagination and creativity – attributes we actively encourage in our staff. It calls for integration – the creation of skilful, efficient, multifunctional and multicultural

By bringing together psychiatrists, neurologists, care providers and their families, we share knowledge, develop understanding and help to identify new and different areas of research. It is by these means that we are able quickly to identify the needs of patients and to translate research results into effective pharmaceuticals.

We take a long-term view when investing in new research, projects and programmes.

Our focus helps in our success. A far greater proportion of our research projects make it to market than is typical in our industry. With projects focusing on mood disorders, dementia, anxiety and epilepsy, we continue to devote extensive resources to CNS research – both in-house and in co-operation with leading psychiatric, academic and institutional research centres.
